Shoulder pain is common among active individuals and can happen at any age. Shoulder pain generally develops after a fracture or dislocation of the shoulder joint, which can cause severe discomfort in many people. Fortunately, there are many methods that our team at QC Kinetix (Beaumont) can use to help you recover from shoulder pain.

Our core treatments for shoulder pain include non-surgical procedures designed to help you get back to routine as soon as possible. We have helped countless patients and are dedicated to providing you with the highest quality care possible. In addition, our team members are highly trained in surgical procedures that use advanced technology to repair damaged tissue in the affected area.

So if you are struggling with shoulder pain and looking for Beaumont shoulder pain relief, turn to us; we believe you will find the care you deserve.
